Marshall To Lead Area Preaching Mission

By CATHY McJUNKIN
Staff Writer

For more than 15 years, the Rev. Peter J. Marshall has been helping ministers and church groups across the country discover the way to new spiritual depth and Christian maturity.

And there is a way, he tells the hundreds who gather for his teaching and preaching missions each year — "an exciting way as old as Genesis, and as new as this morning's problems."

"That way is repentance — not just the one-time overhaul which we undertake when we first turn our lives over to Christ, but an ongoing daily willingness to let the Holy Spirit show us where God would have us change, that we might be more conformed to His Son's image," he says in published introductions to his ministry.

"That means seeing not just our wrong deeds, but also wrong heart attitudes, such as self-righteousness, jealousy, pride, wilfulness, self-love, etc. Then we can confess our sinfulness, and be cleansed and forgiven and go on into resurrection life in Christ."

The son of the late Peter Marshall, chaplain of the U.S. Senate from 1947 to 1949, and author Catherine Marshall LeSourd, Marshall will bring his message to Asheville for the interdenominational Harrison-Shaw Preaching Mission to be held Nov. 16-19 at Trinity United Methodist Church.

Established in 1982 by Thomas and Mary Jo Harrison of Asheville in memory of their fathers, W.S. Harrison Sr. of Asheville and J. Paul Shaw of Raleigh, the preaching mission was created to "bring the ministry of and spiritual preparation precedes the preaching mission, and some speakers must be secured as far in advance as two to three years. The contribution of the sponsoring family covers all expenses for the mission and no offerings are taken.

The Rev. Stephen Brown, a former Asheville resident who serves as pastor of Key Biscayne Presbyterian Church in Florida, conducted services during the first Harrison-Shaw Preaching Mission in 1982.

And in 1983, mission coordinators secured Sir (the Rev.) Alan Walker of Australia, a Methodist minister known throughout the world for his dynamic preaching and innovative caring ministries.

Knighted by Queen Elizabeth II in 1981 in recognition of his services to religion, Walker originated the round-the-clock telephone ministry, "Life Line," known in the United States and locally as "CONTACT."

Myron Augsburg, a Menonite minister in Washington, D.C., led the mission in 1984, and Arthur Caliendo, successor to Norman Vincent Peale as senior minister of Marble Collegiate Church in New York, was guest speaker in 1985.

In addition to Trinity United Methodist, area churches expected to participate in the 1986 Harrison-Shaw Preaching Mission include: Abernethy United Methodist, Calvary Baptist, Grace Baptist, Malvern Hills Presbyterian, St. George's Episcopal, West Asheville Baptist, West Asheville Presbyterian, Oak Forest Presbyterian and First Christian, Disciples of Christ.

outstanding religious leaders of various denominations to the people of Asheville, Buncombe County and the surrounding area."

"While the mission is held at Trinity United Methodist Church, the services are interdenominational and are designed to offer inspiration, Christian nurture and Christian fellowship to all people," the patrons have said in describing the event.

"It is our prayer that by uniting in this spiritual experience, the churches of our community will be drawn closer together."

Using the Cross of Triumph as its logo, the mission is "symbolic of the triumph of the Gospel throughout the earth."

The charter of the mission calls for an advisory committee comprised of representatives of various denominations in the community, and an executive committee comprised of Trinity and family representatives to prepare for the event.

A lengthy period of planning mission, Marshall is expected to provide down-to-earth messages that will enable Christians to live more committed lives.

Topics for the services, which will begin at 7 p.m. with informal singing, include: "America's Hope: If My People..."; "Paralysis of Power?"; "Jesus and Healing for the Family," and "The Call, The Cross and The Crown."

Other events to be attended by Marshall include: Christian growth seminars at 10 a.m. Nov. 17-19; annual ministers' luncheon at noon Nov. 17; a visit to Givens Estates at noon Nov. 18; and Young At Heart Senior Citizens' luncheon at noon Nov. 19.

A graduate of Yale University and Princeton Theological Seminary, Marshall was ordained in 1965, and was an assistant minister in West Hartford, Conn., before becoming pastor of the East Dennis Community Church on Cape Cod, Mass., where he served from 1967 to 1977. With his wife, Edith, and three children, he lives on Cape Cod, where he is a member of the Community of Jesus, and an active member of the Presbytery of Southern New England.

With David Manuel, he has co-authored two bestselling books — "The Light and the Glory" and "From Sea to Shining Sea." A third book, "Mine Eyes Have Seen the Glory," is under preparation.

In a brochure explaining his ministry, Marshall said he has found that being willing to be wrong — let alone being free to be wrong — is one of the hardest things for modern Christians to do.

"The first Pilgrims and Puritans who brought the light of Christ to these shores came with the conviction that God was calling them to found a Christian nation that would be a 'city upon a hill,' and would bring the truth of the Gospel to the rest of the world," the brochure stated.

deed, but not us."

Marshall's ministry encourages listeners to consider repentance, and to experience the fruit it brings — through reconciled relationships, restored marriages, dynamic church renewals and "attitudes so profoundly changed that the Christian walk becomes an adventure once again, the way it is supposed to be."

He has said that his hope and vision is that enough American Christians will enter into renewed lives of daily repentance that revival will begin to sweep across the country, creating a genuine "one nation under God."

The key, according to Marshall, is in II Chronicles 7:14 — "If My people, who are called by My name, will humble themselves, pray and seek My face, and turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven, and will heal their land."

"They had a covenanted life with God and one another, wherein they were well aware of their own sinful natures, and how much they needed the Saviour's grace in order to live in obedience to Him."

"But the secret of God's blessing on early New England was their commitment to confess their sin to one another and help one another grow in the peace and joy of Jesus Christ."

"Their descendants learned the secret too, and great revivals periodically swept the land — each one in the wake of sincere, personal repentance on the part of sometimes just a handful of believers determined to go deeper with the Lord."

"Yet somehow today we have lost sight of the need to repent; indeed, many of us church-going Christians have difficulty believing we have anything to repent for — our neighbors, yes in-

Minister Says 'American Revival' Needed To Complete Divine Plan

By NANCY MARLOWE
Staff Writer

Peter Marshall is coming to Asheville to preach about what he calls "God's plan for America." He is bringing a message of revival and repentance to people who don't think of themselves as sinners.

"My particular ministry has to do with helping Christians grow, how to truly follow Christ as his disciples. But now the Lord has given me a particular burden for nationwide revival," he said.

The Rev. Peter J. Marshall is the son of the clergyman about whom the book, "A Man Called Peter," was written. His mother, Catherine Marshall LeSourd, wrote the best-selling biography about her first husband, Peter Marshall, chaplain of the Senate 1947-49. She is also the author of the book "Christy," which is about Marshall's grandmother who was born and reared in Montreat.

"My grandmother is the novel's Christy," Marshall said in a telephone interview. "The book was based on my grandmother's days in the mountains as a missionary."

Marshall is co-author with David Manuel of "The Light and the Glory" (1977) and its sequel, "Sea to Shining Sea," published last year.

Marshall is featured speaker for the fifth annual interdenominational Harrison-Shaw Preaching Mission Sunday through Wednesday (Nov. 16-19) at Trinity United Methodist Church. Services begin at 7 p.m.

"Sea to Shining Sea" deals with whether God has a plan for America. For answers, Marshall went to historical records, including Christopher Columbus' journal and accounts of battles in the Revolutionary War.

"The evidence is overwhelming," Marshall said. "God's plan for America is to be an example to other peoples of the possibilities for a new and different society — where there is liberty and justice for every man."

But, he said, "We have drifted very far away from God's plan." He said freedom has been "perverted into a way of building ease and comfort, as opposed to being what we are called to be, which is a missionary nation."

Marshall said America as a missionary nation setting an example for the world "doesn't mean we are superior, because we are not. I am not advocating self-righteous super-nationalism. What is required is lowliness, humility and total dependence on the grace of God."

"There has never been another land where there has been such a clean and fresh opportunity to build a nation based on the word of God. We were given an incredible opportunity to build whatever society we wanted.

"As Jesus said, 'Of him to whom much is given, much is required.'"

"There is so much evidence of this vision all along in American history, right up until modern times. In the 20th century, we've begun to lose it," he said.

Marshall said that what America has now is "churchianity" instead of Christianity. "Christianity hit a low ebb after the American Revolution, but we have a tremendous amount of churchianity — of people going to church on Sunday. We are the most churchied nation in the world. On the other hand, there is no revival in America. People think believing certain things and going to church is not Christianity, it's churchianity."

Christianity requires daily living a Christ-centered, self-sacrificing life, Marshall said.

"America needs a national revival. I'm not talking about a couple of weeks and back to business as usual. The promise is that if Christians lead a life of repentance and change, God will work miracles. The fate of the nation depends on how we live as individuals."

Marshall said he sees evidence the sort of revival he preaches about has begun. "The pro-life movement, the anti-pornography movement are evidence of Christianity coming into the marketplace."

A graduate of Yale University and Princeton Theological Seminary, Marshall is a Presbyterian minister. He and his wife Edith and their three children live on Cape Cod. He is at work on a third book, "Mine Eyes Have Seen the Glory."

SUGGESTED PRAYER AND BIBLE STUDY GUIDE

(HARRISON-SHAW PREACHING MISSION, NOVEMBER 16-19, 1986)

"He (Jesus) also told them a parable about the need of always praying and never losing heart." (Luke 18:1, Moffatt). Parable: Luke 18:1-8). After observing Jesus at prayer, the disciples asked, "Lord, teach us to pray." (Luke 11:1). He taught: pray in sincerity (Matthew 6:5-8); with persistence (Luke 11:5-13); with confidence (Matthew 7:7-12); and how to pray (Matthew 6:5-13).

Prayer was the habitual atmosphere of Jesus' daily life. He prayed: in early morning (Mark 1:35); after hard day and all night (Mark 6:46); before meals (Matthew 14:15-21, Luke 24:27-31); in his busy ministry (Mark 7:34). He prayed in all the great crises: baptism (Luke 3:21); before selecting the 12 (Luke 6:12); before a ministry of healing (Mark 9:29); in hour of trial (Luke 22:44); at triumphal entry (John 12:27, 28); at raising of Lazarus (John 11:40-46); on the cross (Luke 23:46). Jesus' prayers included elements of: communion (Luke 9:29); thanksgiving (Luke 22:17, 19); praise and petition (Matthew 6:9-13); intercession (John 17, John 12:9, Mark 10:6, Luke 23:34); obedience (Matthew 26:36-46).

MY PRAYER COVENANT

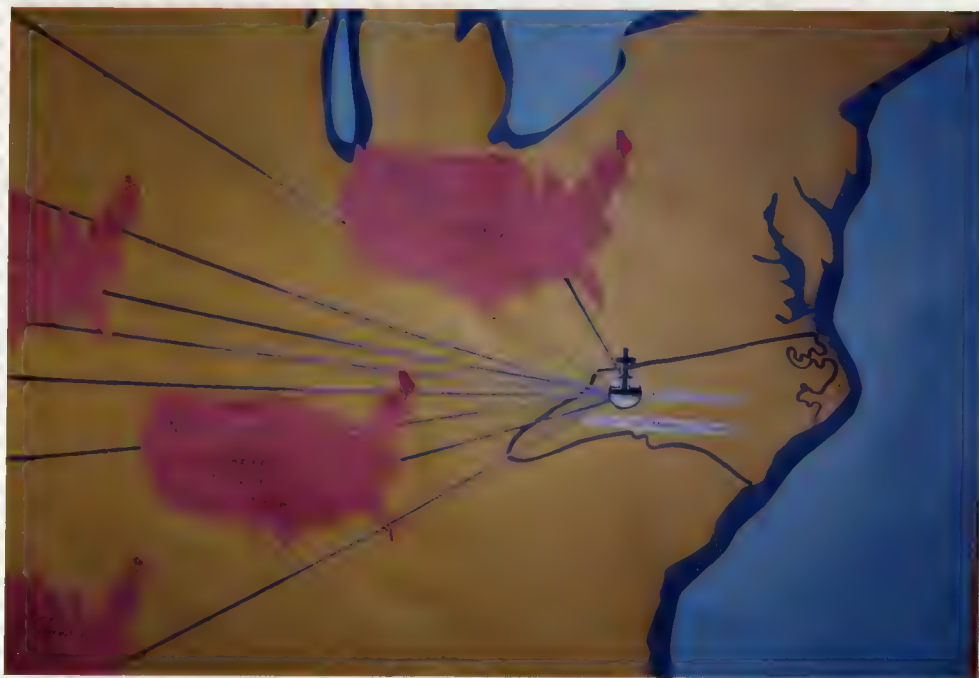

Encouraged by Jesus' example, I will endeavor to be faithful in the ministry of prayer before, during and after the Preaching Mission.

I will pray for:

- renewal in my own spiritual life (Luke 24:49, John 15:1-10)
- revival in the Church and the healing of our Nation (II Chronicles 7:14)
- my family, friends
- those in critical need
- the Mission Preachers and their services (I Thessalonians 5:17-18)
- those in Ministry of healing (Mark 16:17, Psalms 40:1-5)
- the presence and power of the Holy Spirit
- God's Word to be heard and obeyed (Psalms 119:1-5)

The Promise: "Ask, and it shall be given you; knock, and it shall be opened unto you;" (Matthew 7:7-8)

Why isn't Christianity more exciting and fulfilling for me? Why is so much of my life dull routine?

Why am I still so critical and resentful, even after I've prayed and prayed about it?

What can I do about our marriage or about our son/daughter?

What can I do to help my church come alive in Christ?

Is the nationwide revival that America so desperately needs, even possible?

These are just a few of the questions that Mr. Marshall is asked — and provides practical answers for — in his teaching and preaching missions across the nation. For more than fifteen years, he has been helping pastors and church groups the length and breadth of America to find the way to new spiritual depth and Christian maturity.

There is a way — an exciting way as old as Genesis, and as new as this morning's problems. That way is repentance — not just the one-time overhaul which we undertake when we first turn our lives over to Christ, but an ongoing daily willingness to let the Holy Spirit show us where God would have us change, that we might be more conformed to His Son's image. That means seeing not just our wrong deeds, but also wrong heart attitudes, such as self-righteousness, jealousy, pride, willfulness, self-love, etc. Then we can confess our sinfulness, and be cleansed and forgiven and go on into Resurrection life in Christ.

But being willing to be wrong — let alone being free to be wrong — seems to be one of the hardest things for us modern Christians to do. The first Pilgrims and Puritans who brought the light of Christ to these shores came with the conviction that God was calling them to found a Christian nation that would be "a city upon a hill," and would bring the truth of the Gospel to the rest of the world. They had a covenanted life with God and one another, wherein they were well aware of their own sinful natures, and how much they needed the Saviour's grace in order to live in obedience to Him.

But the secret of God's blessing on early New England was their commitment to confess their sin to one another and help one another grow in the peace and joy of Jesus Christ.

Their descendants learned the secret too, and great revivals periodically swept the land — each one in the wake of sincere, personal repentance on the part of sometimes just a handful of believers determined to go deeper with the Lord.

Yet somehow today we have lost sight of the need to repent; indeed, many of us church-going Christians have difficulty believing we have anything to repent for — our neighbors, yes indeed, but not us.

With considerable leavening humor at his own expense, Mr. Marshall encourages his audience to consider repentance, and to experience the fruit it brings — in reconciled relationships, restored marriages, dynamic church renewals, and attitudes so profoundly changed that the Christian walk becomes an adventure once again, the way it is supposed to be.

Toward this end, he is invited by churches or groups of laymen either for single meetings or four- or five-day preaching/teaching missions, where he speaks in practical down-to-earth terms about how we can live out a more committed Christian life on a daily basis.

In morning and evening meetings, Mr. Marshall seeks to be led by the Holy Spirit in meeting the needs of those present. He often speaks on such subjects as:

What does it really mean to be a Christian?

How can Christians grow up in Christ?

How can a church come alive in Christ?

How does God heal family relationships?

The freedom to be wrong

Keys to emotional healing

How to overcome in adversity and trials

Freedom from self: The Way of the Cross

Is there hope for America?

Mr. Marshall's hope and vision is that enough of us American Christians will enter into renewed lives of daily repentance that revival will begin to sweep across the country, and we will truly become "one nation under God." That does not require that all Americans be converted. As we have seen from God's hand in our nation's history, and what we can discern about His plan for America, what is required is that a sufficient number of those already committed to Christ, choose to go on with the Lord into Christian maturity. God has given us the key in the Scriptures: "If My people, who are called by My name, will humble themselves, pray and seek My face, and turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven, and will heal their land." Marshall to preach at Trinity ASHEVILLE — The Rev. Peter J. Marshall, a Presbyterian minister of Orleans, MA, and a member of the Presbytery of Southern New England, will be the preacher for the fifth interdenominational Harrison-Shaw preaching Mission, Nov. 16-19 in Trinity Church here.

He is the son of the late Dr. Peter Marshall, chaplain of the U.S. Senate from 1947 to 1949, and popular author Catherine Marshall LeSourd.

A graduate of Yale University and Princeton Theological Seminary, Marshall was ordained in 1965, and served pastorates in West Hartford, CT, and Cape Cod, MA. Beginning his special mission and retreat ministry in 1977, he has become nationally known as a preacher and teacher on Christian growth and maturity. He is the co-author of two best selling books about the role of Christianity in American history, "The Light and the Glory" and "From Sea to Shining Sea."

Marshall

Topics for the 7:15 p.m. services will be: "America's Hope: If My People...", "Paralysis or Power," "Jesus and Healing for the Family" and "The Call, the Cross and the Crown." Marshall will also conduct a Christian Growth Seminar each day at 10:00 a.m. and speak at the following noon-time special events: the Ministers' Luncheon, Nov. 17; the Givens Estates' service, Nov. 18, and the Young At Heart Senior Citizens' Luncheon, Nov. 19.

The music ministry will include an interchurch choir directed by Mrs. Fred Morgan, organ music by Mrs. Judy McFadden and informal singing led by Don Welborn.

The annual mission was established by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Harrison as a memorial to their fathers, W.S. Harrison, Sr. of Asheville and J. Paul Shaw of Raleigh. While the services are held at Trinity, the mission is designed as an inter-church effort to bring the ministry of outstanding religious leaders of various denominations to the people of Asheville and Western North Carolina.

The Rev. James Bellamy, host pastor and chairman of the Preaching Mission committee, extends a cordial invitation to everyone to attend the services.

An Introduction to the Ministry of Rev. Peter J. Marshall

Why isn't Christianity more exciting and fulfilling for me? Why is so much of my life dull routine?

Why am I still so critical and resentful, even after I've prayed and prayed about it?

What can I do about our marriage or about our son/daughter?

What can I do to help my church come alive in Christ?

Is the nationwide revival that America so desperately needs, even possible?

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

The Rev. Peter Marshall is a Presbyterian minister, who has gained national recognition as a teacher and preacher on Christian growth and maturity. He is invited by various churches across the nation to conduct preaching and teaching missions.

Born and raised in Washington, D.C., Rev. Marshall is the son of Dr. Peter Marshall, the Chaplain of the United States Senate from 1947 to 1949, and Catherine Marshall LeSourd, author of many best-selling books. A graduate of Yale University and Princeton Theological Seminary, he served as an Assistant Minister in West Hartford, Connecticut, for several years before becoming the Pastor of the East Dennis Community Church on Cape Cod, Massachusetts, where he served from 1967 to 1977. With his wife, Edith, and their three children, Mary Elizabeth, age 17, Peter Jonathan, age 12, and David Christopher, age 5, he lives on Cape Cod, where he is a member of the Community of Jesus.

His particular emphasis is the urgent need for American Christians to press beyond shallowness and superficiality in their spiritual lives, and to recover the New Testament fervor and joy of a deep personal relationship with Jesus Christ and with one another. In our Lord's words: "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me." To follow Him means a deep personal surrender of our lives to His lordship on a daily basis, which will require us to face up to and deal with our own sinful natures, and the areas of self that hinder the healing and joy of Jesus from filling us and flowing through us to others.

Discovering these as the major keys to Christian maturity, coupled with a burden for America's destiny at this crisis point in history, led to his co-authoring with David Manuel, books about God's call on this nation, and His hand in our founding and development entitled The Light and The Glory and From Sea to Shining Sea. The central thrust of these books is that God will only be enabled to save our nation if we American Christians take II Chronicles 7:14 seriously, and put God's word to us into action: "If my people, who are called by my name, will humble themselves, and pray and seek my face, and will turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven, and forgive their sins, and heal their land."
